I have spent the last sixteen years working on and around cameras, the last nine of which as a lighting cameraman and DOP. Throughout this time, I have found myself working in a variety of situations and conditions ranging from the Arctic Circle, to the salt flats of Utah, to 14000 feet with a parachute team. I have used all formats and techniques throughout this period and keep abreast of the latest cameras and technology. I have also had the opportunity to light anything from interviews, to cars, to a station concourse, and numerous other locations in between.
