Clive Tulloh - Executive Producer at Burning Bright Productions

(CliveTulloh@bbprod.co.uk)

“Will Churchill’s camera work is impeccable, but it’s only when you get back in the edit you realise quite how brilliant he is. He has got me out of trouble on countless occasions but I don’t tell him in case it goes to his head! Clive Tulloh EP on Joanna Lumley’s - Nile, Greece, Ark, Japan, Trans-Siberian, Silk Road, India, Post Cards, Secret Caribbean - 27 Eps BAFTA nominated Kenya Special and numerous RK on Gangs” 15 Eps - 2019

Grant Wardrop - Executive Producer (grant@gwproductions.co.uk)

I have worked with Will many times, initially with Top Gear and then subsequently on my own projects. We recently returned from an Alpine shoot for BBC2, where Will’s multi skilled approach was invaluable, switching between doc style actuality moments with contributors and capturing epic cinematic vistas. He was also graciously uncomplaining as I bounced him around in the back of a 4x4 while tracking motorcycles off road! - 2019

Sam Simon – Executive Producer - (contacts on request)

Will, Director of Photography, filmed a documentary in Far East Russia. Nine cameras were used, to capture the great landscapes and drama for BBC2’s – The Worlds Most Dangerous Roads. We followed two comedians along the renowned ‘Road of Bones’, which is one of the harshest place on earth, due to the extreme temperature , which fall bellow -53 degree. Filming in extreme conditions and potential life threatening environments is challenging as well as rewarding, but we had a good team behind us making informed and calculating decisions , which kept everyone safe, resulting in an amazing documentary. - 2019
